Rocky Mountain Region Begins Recruiting for 2016 Field Season

Positions available in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming

Golden, Co., November 13, 2015 – The Rocky Mountain Region of the U.S. Forest Service announced today that it will be advertising more than 600 temporary positions throughout the region's national forests and grasslands starting January 7, 2016.

Temporary positions are available in a variety of occupations such as fire, trails, forestry, engineering, wildlife, recreation, fisheries, archeology and administrative support.

"Temporary employees perform crucial work and serve a diverse group of users during the peak summer months," said Regional Forester Daniel J. Jirón. "We are looking for employees with a wide variety of skills and backgrounds," added Jiron.

Job seekers can apply for temporary jobs during these time frames:

- January 7-14, 2016, for wildland fire positions and other early season, non-fire temporary positions
- Early February 2016 for most non-fire temporary positions in recreation, fisheries, forestry, engineering, etc.
- Early March 2016 for remaining positions

Job opportunities are available online at: <http://www.fs.usda.gov/main/r2/jobs>. Interested applicants will need to apply through USAJOBS: www.usajobs.gov. National Forest Service job opportunities can be found online at: <https://fsoutreach.gdcii.com/Outreach>.

The Rocky Mountain Region is comprised of 17 national forests and seven national grasslands, located in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming.
